

Heaven's Invasion Declarations

By Patrice London

Peace, joy and rest are mine. I am never alone, never without options. I am fully surrounded and deeply loved. Because I can, I give the enemy constant bouts of depression.

I reject all ideas of my being predisposed to health issues because of my family history. I hold fast to the truth, which is that by His stripes I was healed. I walk in divine health.

Because God's love abides in me, I have no fear. I leave no welcome mats near the door of my heart or life for the enemy to enter in, and I enjoy regular encounters with God that leave me whacked and more in love with Him each day.

Whom the Son sets free is free indeed, so I declare that I am free!

In all things, at all times, I have the mind of Christ.

I am wise as a serpent, but harmless as a dove.

Wisdom and understanding are my constant companions. I am always able to rise higher and see a situation with greater depth perception, and avoid wrestling with flesh and blood.

I am overflowing with those rivers of living waters. I change every atmosphere that I enter into for the better with just my presence.

I accept, receive and live that abundant life that Jesus came to give me. I do not merely exist; I thrive as I partner with my Heavenly Father and whip the enemy.

Because my Father is Creator of all, I am in a constant flow, moving in sync with Him. I am living in the unforced rhythms of grace and enjoy change knowing that there's always more in store for me.

I declare that I will not leave this world before receiving and doing everything that God has for me.

I constantly experience the strength that comes from my oneness with Jesus, and I possess the dominating power of His extreme, unlimited ability!
